Structure of the Wyoming Legislature

Introduction

The Wyoming Legislature is a 93-member citizen Legislature, meaning the members elected serve part-time and this is typically not their primary occupation. Wyoming remains one of the few states to have a true part-time citizen Legislature. While the part-time nature of the institution allows members to stay in close contact with their constituents, it also means they do not enjoy the same accommodations provided to full-time legislators in larger states, such as personal staff.

Management Council

- The leadership of the Legislature and the administrative arm of the legislative branch of state government.
- Policymaking body when the Legislature is not in session.
- 10 members representing both parties and consists of legislators in leadership positions and two at-large members.
- After every November General Election in even-numbered years, legislators hold party caucuses to elect legislative leadership for each party for the upcoming biennium (two-year period).
- Appoints the director of the Legislative Service Office.
- Assigns interim committee topics

Senate Leadership

- President
- Vice President
- Majority Floor Leader
- Minority Floor Leader
- Minority Whip
- Minority Caucus Chairman

House Leadership

- Speaker
- Speaker Pro Tempore
- Majority Floor Leader
- Majority Whip

Structure of the Wyoming Legislature

- The President of the Senate is the presiding officer of the Senate.
- Impeachment shall be tried in the Senate.

House of Representatives

- There are 62 members in the Wyoming House of Representatives.
- There are 56 Republicans and 6 Democrats currently serving.
- Members serve a two-year term.

- The Speaker of the House is the presiding officer of the House of Representatives.
- All revenue-raising bills must start in the House.
- The House has the sole power of impeachment (Governor and other state and judicial officers can be impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors or malfeasance in office).

Staff for the Wyoming Legislature

Legislative Service Office

Created in 1971 to provide administrative and professional services for the state's legislative branch of government, the Legislative Service Office (LSO) is the permanent, non-partisan staff for the Wyoming Legislature. The services are performed on a non-partisan basis for both the House and Senate. The LSO Director is employed by, and subject to the direction of, the Management Council. Other employees are employed by the LSO Director with approval of the Management Council.

- Legislators in Wyoming do not have individual staff.
- LSO is one of the smallest legislative staff in the country with 44 full-time employees.
- LSO consists of the following staff sections: legal, budget and fiscal, research and program evaluation, and operations.
- LSO provides research and bill-drafting services for legislators, including pre-filing and distribution of proposed legislation before legislative sessions.
- Staff are responsible for revision and recompilation of the laws of Wyoming; session laws, journals and digests; and accounting for all legislative expenditures, supplies, and properties.
- Staff prepare administrative rule reviews and reports, conduct oversight evaluations of executive agency programs, conduct fiscal studies and budget analyses and coordinate legislative activities related to school finance.

Session-Only Staff

Session staff for each house work directly for the chief clerk, who is appointed by the presiding officer in each house. Session staff help to ensure the orderly flow of legislative proceedings during legislative sessions.

Session staff in each house include the chief clerk, assistant chief clerk, staff supervisor, journal clerk, computer floor team operators, reading clerk, sergeant at arms, doormen, pages, messengers, committee secretaries, copy clerks, and leadership secretary.

Legislative Sessions

The Legislature meets in a General Session in odd-numbered years, beginning on the second Tuesday of January. The General Session is limited to no more than 40 legislative days. In even-numbered years, the Legislature convenes in a Budget Session beginning on the second Monday of February, which typically lasts 20 legislative days. Except for the budget bill and legislative redistricting, all other proposed legislation requires a two-thirds vote from the Senate or House for introduction during a Budget Session. A two-thirds vote is not required in the second house.

Special sessions may be called at any time by the Governor or the Legislature, in accordance with the Wyoming Constitution.

What is the role of a committee

A great deal of the Legislature's work is accomplished year round through the efforts of legislative committees. Each legislator serves on several different committees.

Standing Session Committees

There are 12 permanent parallel committees in the Wyoming Senate and House of Representatives. These committees are called "standing" committees. Standing committees meet during legislative sessions to review bills, hear testimony and recommend action on legislation for the consideration of the full body of the Senate or House. These committees meet before and after the daily floor sessions and during Noon recess. These committees generally consist of nine members in the House and five members in the Senate. Legislation being considered during session is assigned by the presiding officer in the Senate or House to one of these committees for review and recommendation before being considered on the floor by the full body of the Senate or House.

Joint Interim Committees

In the interim—the period between sessions—the standing committees in each body, with the exception of the Journal and Rules committees, merge to form joint interim committees. Joint interim committees study topics assigned by Management Council. Some committee chairmen may create sub-committees to address specified topics assigned to their joint interim committees. These committees often meet throughout the state.

Other Legislative Committees and Task Forces

In addition to the 12 permanent joint interim committees, members also serve on a variety of select committees and task forces during the interim. Some of these select committees are permanent entities authorized in statute, some are approved through legislation for a time-limited basis to address an identified issue or concern to the Legislature, and others may be authorized by the Management Council.
